deed of the same which the doctor had in his pocket, but on his refusing to give it up, Baggett exclaimed, "I am going to kill you," at the same time pulling his revolver

Dr. Eady was trying to dismount from his carriage when he was again shot by Baggett, the ball breaking his spinal colmn. He fell back into the wagon, and Baggett went to his house. Baggett returned on horseback, and, with revolver in hand, demanded the deed of Baldwin, who put his hand in Eady's pocket and took out the document. As he handed it to Baggett he said: "The doctor s dead, he has no further use for it. After securing the deed the murderer rode off in the direction of Durango City. An American named Bradley notified the police at Durango City, and Baggett rode rapidly to the summit of the Reme dios mountains, where he was found at nightfall by the police, who had a desper-ate time to dislodge him from the cave where he had taken refuge. In the encounter Baggett shot policeman Pease, and it was not until the former had been clubbed nearly to death that he yielded. The prisoner was taken to Durango jail, where he is now awaiting trial.

MR. BIGGS' BILL.

Congressman Biggs bas introduced hi threatened bill, "to investigate the min ing debris question in California." The bill ought to be knocked in the head, just as the Courts have brained the debris ques tion itself. What do the friends of the measure want investigated? Facts that have been established and put on record in State and Federal Courts, and that admi no longer of any manner of dispute? But we believe it is an ill-advised bill, and it should not pass. Unfortunately, it is in danger of becoming a law, because it is a bill of inquiry, and the plea will be made that it can only serve to throw light upon the question. But if it passes it means postponement of the question of river improvement for another series of years. But for this we would entertain no fears regarding the bill. Every diversion of the attention of Government from that question makes it the more difficult to consider, and the heavier the work to be done in the end. Mr. Biggs' bill will cause delay, will cost an immense sum of money and retard development of the valley by postponement of all important river improvement, which the Federal Government has finally settled upon to be necessary, and recognized as imperative, by its decrees and its legislation against the agencies assaulting the integrity of the navigable channels, The passage of the bill introduced by Mr. Biggs will unsettle values along all river sections below the mouth of the Feather, and largely along the whole course of the Sacramento, since hydraulic mining is now threatening the upper waters of that river. It will create a feeling of uncertainty, really turn the entire river section of the State backward

A MATTER OF PROHIBITION.

The Supreme Court of the State has ruled that the local option clause is in the Constitution, and that under it municipalities may regulate or prohibit the retailing of liquors in saloons and at bars. the subject, says:

It is no uncommon thing nowadays to see children scarcely out of dresses putling at a cigarette with all the nonchalance imaginable; and such cigarettes, too, as they generally are. The babies' means are so limited that they can buy nothing but the cheapest and vilest kinds of cigarettes when as proper who limited that they can buy nothing but the cheapest and vilest kinds the bables means are so limited that they can buy nothing but the cheapest and vilest kinds of cigarettes, such as no man who knows anything about tobacco would look at, much less smoke; and with these indescribably nasty concoctions these youngsters proceed to poison themselves. The example of Santa Rosa is one that might be followed to advantage by other cities, San Francisco included. We make all sorts of health regulations; we enforce vaccination and prescribe how much air sleeping-rooms shall contain; we take care of the children's work-time lest they be stunned and crushed before they have grown strong; we get up societies with long names to see that tiny acrobats do not turn one handspring too many, while at the same time we permit those same children to buy poison on every corner, and to kill themselves by inches, and no one interferes. San Francisco should adopt an ordinance similar to that of Santa Rosa, and then see that it is enforced. We fancy members of the Board (or Boards) of Health will not differ as to the effect of cigarette smoking on children, and there can be no doubt that it should be put down with a strong hand, and without delay.

> Hon. John Sherman has made a speech in which he analyzes the President's surplus scare. He takes the position that the existence of a surplus is not an indication of danger, but rather of the continuous increase of domestic production, and adds: 'A larger surplus has frequently been dealt with wisely by Republican administrations by a reduction or repeal of taxes. These simple remedies had been applied in the administration of each of Mr. Cleveland's predecessors since the close of the war without a cry of alarm being raised." He House under its control so long, proposed a reduction of taxes before this, and follows this trenchant inquiry with another: Why has not the President followed the example of his predecessors, and applied the surplus to a reduction of the public debt? The answer stands alone-the President has a weather eye upon the main chance in the nomination year, 1888, and proposes to permit no opportunity to escape contribution to his second term ambition. The President's advocates cannot avoid answer to the following statement and charge made by Mr. Sherman: "His administration had changed the form of the debt statement so as to conceal nearly $30,000,000 of money as unavailable assets. If the President regarded this growing surplus as dangerous, why has he not brought his influence to bear upon Congress to pro-

Some idea of the "slim" chance Sacramento stands of getting an enlargement of the appropriation for a public building may be gathered from the demands made upon Congress. There are already seventy claimants for public buildings before Congress, and the sum of their demands is but little less than $30,000,000. For instance one place with a postoffice paying but $100 a year rental wants a Postoffice building to cost $100,000. LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Clunie Opera House.

Maud Granger and her well-balanced it passed off good naturedly. A cigarcompany appeared last evening in "The Creole," better known as "Cora," and Creole," better known as "Cora," and And a pane of glass broken went on the played here last by Clara Morris. Miss warpath, but his anger cooled somewhat played here last by Clara Morris. Miss Granger's support is good. As Cora she made a good impression—very much better than expected indeed from recollections of her some years ago. She has ripened into dramatic excellence, and has evidently made her art severe study. She is certainly an effective actress. She is of fine presence, personal attractiveness, reads with pleasing clearness, and personates the character she assumes with intelligent appreciation of the motive and sentiment of the author. Miss Granger's Cora is less intense perhaps than that of Jeffreys-Lewis, but more womanly. She puts less of animal into it, and much more of human feeling. Both are admirable portraitures, and the charare admirable portraitures, and the character warrants the two interpretations. Mr. Germaine, Mr. Brophy, Mr. Caine and Mr. Gray, with Mrs. Bates and Miss Benham, especially if he wore a silk hat, was to drop the control of the con gave good support.

To-night "The Planter's Wife." The attendance last evening was fair, better than we expected to find under the conditions, for the Opera House is cold, very cold compared to the Metropolitan. The actors last night suffered and the people actors last night suffered, and the people in the auditorium much more. The place ought to be warmed as its walls are all exand its openings are so numerous. The failure to heat it and cut off drafts reweather is exceptionally cool. Whoever takes the house, and rumor has it that it is about to change hands, must, to succeed and it becomes one of the pleasantest theaters in the State.

Ruffianism.

The lawlessness manifest in this city yes-States that the street cars, under like cirumstances, would have to be withdrawn and youths and men, who, though they claim to be orderly, yesterday acted like hoodlums and ruffians. Snow last season. fell in other towns, but no-where else were the means of public transportation forced from service by reason of snowball ruffianism. Women were as-saulted and their pleadings unheeded, property smashed and otherwise damaged, and shopkeepers compelled to close their stores. That such a condition of things as existed here for a few hours yesterday can exist here, is exceedingly discreditable. All the talk about "giving the town a black eye," is bosh and worse; the truth needs to be told, even if it does shame the city. The hoodlumism of yesterday was off of the same piece with that of New Year's eve and night, when gates were unhinged tences thrown down, sidewalks obstructed and property destroyed or damaged to gratify the taste for savagery that crops out in the born hoodlum. That citizens did not yesterday make any determined effort to check sport when it swelled into crim is more than a regret—it is a shame.

could not resist the temptation to engage in the pastime of snowballing. A dozen or more men and boys were stationed at every street corner and the passing pedestrians and those who drove by in vehicles were pelted with snowballs. It was not a good day for Chinamen to be upon the streets, and but few of them showed up until after the snow had disappeared, along in the middle of the afternoon. In one or two instances parties who were victims of this innocent amusement became very much excited, but in nearly every instance it passed off good naturedly. A cigar-dealer who

And a pane of glass broken went on the warpath, but his anger cooled somewhat before it got up to the blood-letting pitch. A lady who was walking on Fifth street, near J. was hit with a flying snowball. She became very angry, ran to her room near by, and getting a pistol came back and would have perforated the young man who threw the snow missile if he had not skedaddled. The boys who represent the boodlum element of this city pelted the street-car drivers so unmercifully that the Superintendent of the road ordered all the cars to the barn and the citizens had to "he hof it" the balance of the day. Several of the windows in the street-cars were broken. The Chief of Police gave orders to arrest all parties caught snowballing persons in vehicles or the drivers of street-cars. One favorite way of paralyzing a pedestrian, especially if he wore a silk hat, was to drop about forty pounds of the soft slush on top of his head just as he emerged from under the awning and stepped upon the cross-

Substantially the above recital of the doctor's grizzly bear encounter is correct, but is lacking in details. It was away back n '54, according to the writer's recollection of the story, as told by the doctor one moonlight night in October, 1884, as he rehearsed some of his early experiences and adventures to an attentive and interested up of sportsmen while seated about a plazing log fire in the hills a few miles beyond Latrobe, El Dorado county. It appears that the doctor had been out deer and quail shooting, on the day preceding that referred to in the above story, in com-pany with a number of friends from the vicinity of Greenwood, and coming across a rattlesnake that challenged his right of way along a path in the chaparral, he shot the serpent's head off. The echo of the explosion had scarcely died away among Sacramento office was not included. The Looking in that direction, the doctor saw a ommotion in the chaparral and soon disovered that he had "flushed" a huge female grizzly bear and two good-sized cubs. One of his companions took a crack at the mother bear, but missed his aim, and the savage beast turned and ran across a ravine in front of the doctor. It happened that the latter had an ounce ball in one of the barrels of his little fourteen-gauge quailing gun, and as the bear crossed an open space he aimed for her neck and let go. For once the doctor's aim deceived him, for he saw the bullet raise a cloud of dust n the hillside beyond, having missed the creature's neck by less than an inch.

bunch of brush, and the hunters made for a group of liveoaks up near the top of a neighboring hill. The doctor's brace of pointer dogs had followed the bears into the brush, and it was expected they would soon emerge and pilot the pursuing beasts direct to the hunters' roost in one of the trees. But the bears did not show up, and the doctor and his friends returned to reenwood and related their adventure February 17 and 18, 1882, light traces of Their story was listened to with considerde incredulity, but finally Dr. Nelson succeeded in securing the promises of a number of gentlemen to go out with him on the following day in search of the bears. Next morning the little party of bear-slayers set forth. It was composed of Dr. Nelson. Never before have we had so many new and choice things to offer at a cloak sale as we shall have this morning.

We feel that those who need a Cloak to-day or who may need one in the near future cannot afford to remain away.

The reductions made in prices are most liberal, and the variety of garments the largest yet shown.

There will not be a garment offered in this sale for any other reason than that it is nearing the close of the season.

Every preparation is being made to serve those who may come with promptness and dispatch.

The sale will include Silk Plush Wraps, Astrakhan Wraps, Tailor-made and Fancy Jackets, Full-length Newmarkets, Children's and Misses' Cloaks.

Some of the garments will be reduced one-quarter, some a third and some a half.

large. The speaker did not propose, he premised, to discuss at great length the points establishing the divine character and mission of the Savior, to celebrate the birth of whom it had been our high privilege to gather, the facts being too well stablished already to render it necessary to enter into a discussion of the proofs. Altogether the discourse was most edifying and instructive. The choir and organist The Father at the conclusion of the service erved were being made to further celebrate he occasion elsewhere in the prison, by he prisoners generally, and expressed the ope that they should have a pleasant ime without any feature to detract from a brough enjoyment of it, and wished the audience a "Merry Christmas." After religious worship, the feature of the orous and able to endure a greater degree day was a theatrical performance given by of cold. Neglected trees here were killed convicts, in the spacious hall ordinarily or damaged. Never having seen the used as the dining-room. While the stage was being prepared dancing was indulged in. This was highly amusing. The dancers taking the places of ladies in the figures were to be distinguished by the absence of the distinguished by the absence of the distinguished by the absence of the distinguished was included the distinguished by the absence of the damaged. Never having seen the orange groves on the lower coast of the Mississippi, where I presume the best in the State were to be found, I cannot compare them with these, but never saw any pare them with the same than the same t their "head-gear" only. Groups of these might be seen sitting demurely about on Bayou Teche that would compare with he benches around the spacious hall, wait- Florida trees in regard to vigor and thriftng for partners to invite them to join in iness. It is considered by growers here, tripping the light fautastic" in a cotillion that the best way to harden an orange r a waltz or polka, meanwhile passing tree and enable it to endure great cold is uch apparently envious remarks on assers-by in the dance representing the ortunate helles of the occasion as the dance representing the make it grow rapidly as possible during things," or in tones of mock sympathy calling to another, "Julia, your back hair's coming down," which, to a fellow with a hort crop in his bare head, was so obshort crop in his bare head, was so obviously ridiculous as to provoke merriment all around. Thus the interval in which the stage was erected and the paraphernalia for the various performances was being arranged passed pleasantly. To speak of the theatricals in detail would make this article too long. Sufficient to say that the nounced his prison number to be 1,221, has been released from San Quentin, after representing himself to be an "Itinerant serving his term of seven years—less his reacher." The burnt cork concealed his credits. He will devote his future to literathe dark concealed his identity, but he was doubtless known to the prisoners. Mail. eport or a Congressional Record. Placing is book on the little table before him he opened it "reverently" and apparently began scanning its pages for a suitable text.

He then pretended to read his text, "The American river is the hard of river in America to cross," "Ten years in the stone ranite quarry at Folsom Prison," etc. crossing the American river at this point will be appreciated when it is understood hat the river here forms part of the prison oundary line, the inviting hills stretching eyond. The remarks relating to ten years experience in the granite stone quarry bore elling points to the initiated hearers, who howed their approval of the itinerant breacher's remarks by encoring him re-peatedly, till at last, almost exhausted physcally, he declared that he had called to pend only a few minutes, but had determined more deliberately that if he was treated properly he should stay about four years and a "butt," as the odd months of a term are denominated by the prisoners. This brought the house down, as four years and a "butt" tallied correctly with wha was known to remain of his ten-year tern in the granite stone quarry. Being en-cored again he fired his plug hat in the most unbecoming style, for a member of he cloth, at the audience, and retired for ood amidst general applause. The man-

A dinner of pie, roast beef, potatoes, apples, etc., concluded the day's recreation, and all, it is hoped, were benefited by the privilege. Professor Jose Garcia's String Band, all prisoners, furnished the music. Respect-

Florida vs. Louisiana A gentleman writing from Florida to the Louisiana Sugar Bowl says: "It seems strange that the same degree of cold which kills orange trees in Louisiana does not kill them here. Orange lake is only about forty miles south of the latitude of New Iberia and New Orleans, and while with you it was 12°. Here not one tree in a hundred was killed, and there all succumbed to the cold. In this State fifty degrees north of your latitude (30°) a large portion of the orange trees are living, and some bearing fruit this year. I do not know to what cause to attribute this difference, unless it be owing to the fact that the trees are better cultivated and cared the rorous and able to endure a greater degree orous and able to end and instructive. EDS RECORD-UNION: "Christmas comes but once a year" is a saying that doubtless has its peculiar appreciation by all classes in Christendom, but to few, if indeed, to any, has it the deep significance that prisoners attach to it when it is permitted them to hold a reception to old Santa Claus in prison, as it was the privilege of those confined in this institution to do Christmas, the last day before General McComb's retiracy, the appreciation in which the visit of Old Nick is held being attested by the laudible zest with which the pleasure of the festive occasion is entered into by the average prisoner. Mrs. Hurley, a lady who is 105 years old and in indigent circumstances.

A young German named Rose Fleus was found yesterday nearly suffocated by gas in a lodging-house on Pine street. At last accounts he was still alive, but unconscious. Mrs. H. H. Wagner, of San Francisco, one of a party on the way home to the Pa-cific coast, was severely burned on board a Chicago and Rock Island train on Tuesday

Pacific Company, is rapidly improving in health. The abscess in his side is begin-ning to disappear, and all danger from that source has now passed away. It is only considered a question of time as to when Mr. Mills will be able to resume his numer ous duties.

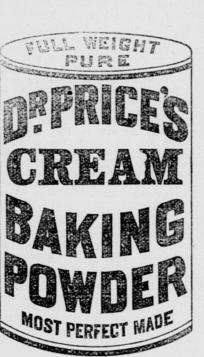

Prior to his departure to the East on a business trip last June, A. Chabot, of Oakland, now lying at death's door, ordered a trust deed drawn conveying a lot of land BARLEY—In spite of the rain feed Barley maintains its position exceedingly well. Sales of choice were made to-day as high as 90c, though it is only under urgency that buyers will pay over 87½ © tl. Brewing is unchanged at 95c@$1 05 as to quality. Take it in Time.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is a highly concentrated and powerful medicine. It is an anodyne expectorant, and, if promptly taken, in cases of Coughs, Throat or Lung troubles, soothes and heals the irritated tissues, and quickly allays all tendency to Consumption. Six years ago, I contracted a severe Cold, which settled on my Lungs, and soon developed all the alarming symptoms of Consumption. I had a Cough, Night Sweats, Bleedigg Lungs, Pain in my Chest and Sides, and was so completely restricted as to be senfined to my Crest and Sides, and was so completely prostrated, as to be confined to my bed most of the time. After trying various prescriptions, without benefit, my physician finally determined to give me Aver's Cherry Pectoral. I took it, and the effect was magical. I seemed to rally from the first dose of this medicine and of to region only three hottles. icine, and, after using only three bottles, am now as well and sound as ever .-Rodney Johnson, Springfield, Ill. I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family, for Colds and Coughs, with infallible success, and should not dare to be without this medicine through the winter months.—Russel Bodine, Hughesville, Lycoming Co., Pa. Aver's Cherry Pectoral, Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5
